

Introduction to Asbestos

Introduction

The "Introduction to Asbestos" training course was developed by a team of professionals who wanted to improve efficiency measures and respect for occupational health and safety standards. This 60-minute training course can be taken at any time.

Description

Since 1983, asbestos has been completely banned in more than 39 countries around the world. Other countries severely restrict its use with the objective of withdrawing its use. The use of asbestos has decreased considerably since the end of the 1970s. Products that contain asbestos are regulated under the Asbestos Products Regulations. Its bans are mainly aimed at stopping health problems and complications from the use of asbestos. In order to work safely, it is important to know the risks and the effects of exposure to asbestos. In addition, the worker must know the compulsory procedures and the related proper protective measures.

Target Population

This training course is primarily intended for regular and casual workers working directly or indirectly with materials and products containing asbestos.

Prerequisites

There is no prerequisite for this training course. No other training or experience is required to take this training.
